CRA To Hold Convention In Monterey

The California Republican Assembly, the oldest and largest pre-primary endorsing volunteer organization in the state, will hold its quarterly Board Meeting on January 18, 19, and 20, at the Holiday Inn, in Monterey.

Dick Krugh, President of CRA, announced that Earl L. Butz, Secretary of Agriculture, will be the Banquet speaker on Saturday evening, January 19th. The luncheon speaker on that same day will be Congressman Burt L. Talcott, whose 12th Congressional District includes Monterey. State Senator John Stull, 38th District, a long-time favorite of CRA and recipient of the "CRA Outstanding Legislator" award in 1969, will deliver the Keynote Address on Saturday morning.

All potential Republican candidates for Governor will attend the three-day conference. Many Republican aspirants for other state-wide offices will be hosting open houses and receptions for those attending the meeting.

An educational seminar is planned for Saturday, January 19th. Mr. Harry Kubo, President of the California Nisei Farmers League will speak on problems affecting California agriculture.

IRS Will Help Taxpayers Here

Taxpayers in the Monterey area may obtain free assistance in preparing federal tax returns by taking advantage of a new toll-free telephone number which became coperative here this week.

The number 880-722-2345 is listed in the tax forms package that is being mailed to all taxpayers. In addition, walk-in assistance is available at the Internal Reveneu Service office located at USO Building, Webster and El Estero Street, Monterey.

In either case, especially trained IRS representatives will be stationed at counters and on the phones. Generally, IRS assistors will answer taxpayers' questions or help in preparing only those sections of the return with which the taxpayer is having difficulty. However, if a taxpayer is unable to prepare his return due to physical or language handicaps, IRS employees will prepare it for the individual.

Studies over the past several filing periods show that more than 70 percent of all tax problems can be answered by telephone.

IRS personnel, for the 1973 filing period, answered over 1.63 million tax inquiries from taxpayers in Northern California.

Announces Meeting

The January luncheon meeting of the League of Women Voters of the Monterey Peninsula will be at 12 noon, Thursday January 17 at Pacific Grove Community Center, 515 Junipero Avenue.

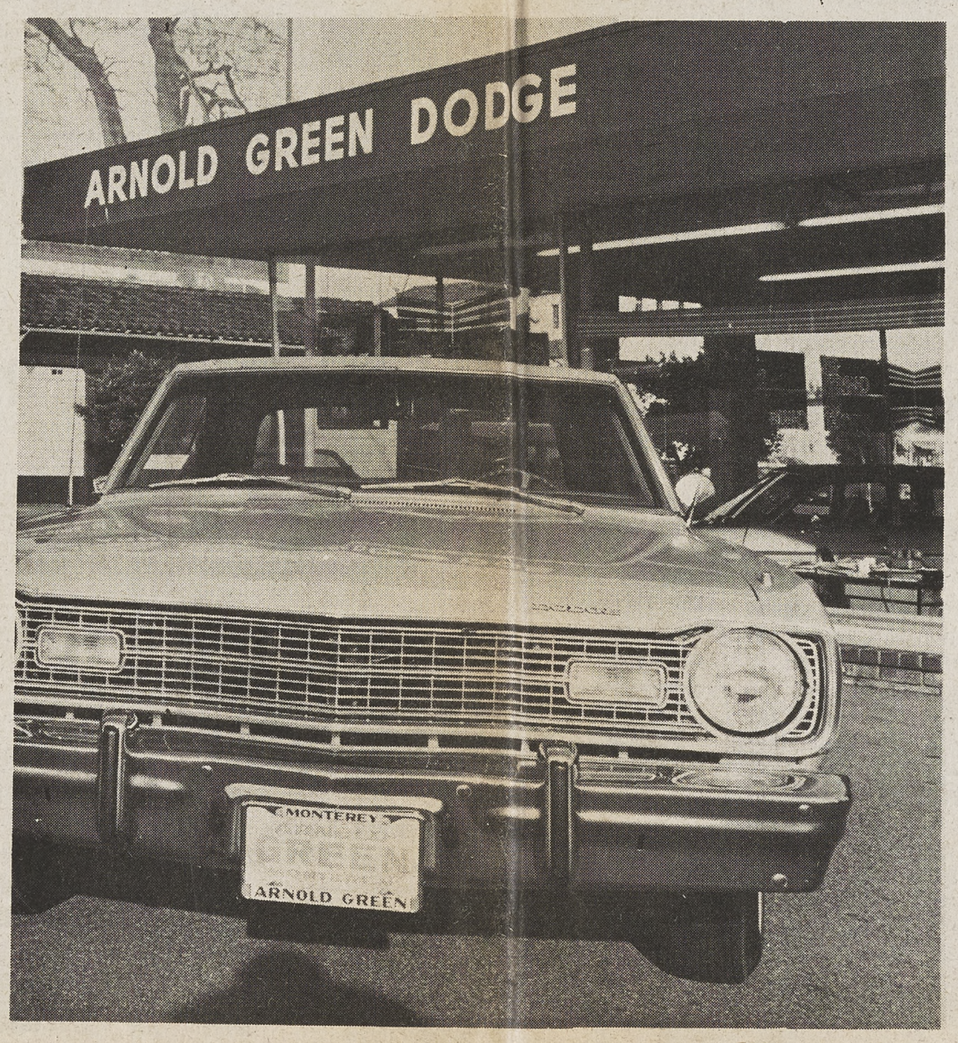

The program topic will be the Monterey County Probation System and the speaker will be Mr. Ernest J. Morreton, the newly appointed Chief Probation Officer of Monterey County. According to the Administrative Study of San Mateo Probation Dept. 1964, "Perhaps no single county service is as sensitive as that of probation." It is considered to be the major rehabilitative procedure.

For new members (and not-so-new) there will be a pre-luncheon meeting at 11:30 in the Junipero Room of the Community Center. Please plan to come early and attend both. For luncheon reservations call Gail Bedow after 4 p.m. at 372-0982. The public is welcome and babysitting is available.

HELPING HAND--Monterey Peninsula Visiting Nurse Association has started new program within its organization, known as the Homemaking Services Division. Above, Mrs. Lucille Royale (center) of Seaside demonstrates some of her cooking skills to Mrs. Edward P. Christensen, president of board of directors of local VNA and Mr. Gil Funston, executive director of Monterey Peninsula United Fund. Mrs. Royale is one of five members of this new service, which has been created to help peninsula shut-ins with their shopping, light-housekeeping and cooking requirements, as well as their personal care. The Homemaking Services Division is being partially financed by MP United Fund, which has given the program a $5000 grant. For information regarding this new service, please call 373-4337.

Utilities Lose Tax Exemption

State Board of Equalization Member George R. Reilly has revealed that local government in California will gain approximately $7.5 million additional sales and use tax revenue annually beginning this year when public utilities such as gas and electric companies and highway and rail carriers lose their exemption from the one percent local sales and use taxes heretofore provided under the Bradley-Burns uniform local sales and use tax law.

Loss of the exemption, effective January 1, 1974, results from legislation limiting the exemption to property used or consumed in the operation of certain aircraft common carriers and waterborne vessels principally outside the city of county in which the sale took place. Changes to the exemption from the Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) District tax have similar provisions.

Thus, on and after January 1, local tax exemption certificates will be accepted by sellers only from operators of aircraft common carriers and operators of waterborne vessels.

The type of property which qualified for the exemption must be used directly and exclusively by the operator of such aircraft and vessels in the transit of persons or property for commercial purposes. Items that are reasonably necessary for the physical operation of the aircraft or vessel and items reasonably necessary for the physical operation of the aircraft or vessel and items reasonably necessary for the sustenance of passengers would qualify for the exemption.

Senate Bill 90, enacted by the Legislature in 1972, made the changes in exemption operative on January 1, following the year in which the State Board of Equalization adopted an assessment ratio for utility properties identical to the 25 percent ratio required by statute for locally assessed property. The Board did so in May 1973.

The Board has long urged the elimination of the special local tax exemptions so that the local tax and state tax would have the same tax base for more simplified tax reporting. This change is a step in that direction.

UCB Building Started

United California Bank recently broke ground for a new and larger banking office in Seaside at the intersection of Olympia and Fremond Boulevard.

The bank will move from its present location at 658 Fremont, a building occupied by the bank since 1964.

Construction is expected to be completed in the second half of 1974. The new building will cost approximately $400,000 and will have 7270 square feet of space and will provide expanded facilities for Peninsula customers, according to Z. (Bill) Sosic, office manager.

"In addition to more lobby space and improved customer features, we will significantly increase our service facilities," Sosic said.

The bank will have parking space for 45 vehicles, and three drive-up teller windows will serve motorists. Additional tellers will be accommodated to expedite service, Sosic said, and a special window for merchant accounts will be provided.

The Seaside office currently employs 19 persons. The new structure also will house UCB's Gateway dealer center that services automobile dealer accounts in the Peninsula area. This group has seven employees.

General contractor for the new office will be Joseph Fratessa Company. James P. Lockett is the architect.

50,000 In State May Lose Jobs, Says Waldie

Congressman Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., recently disclosed that an as yet unpublished proposal from the Office of Management and Budget would call upon all the military services to contract out to private industry much of the operational support services now performed on American military bases, and thereby replace up to one-third of the civil service employees on those bases. Such services are now performed by hundreds of thousands of military personnel and career civil servants.

Waldie said that "For instance, a one-third reduction would affect close to 50,000 jobs in California alone, including 5,000 in Los Angeles County, 6,500 in the Sacramento area, 7,000 in San Diego County, 9,000 in the San Francisco Bay Area, as well as having substantial impact upon other areas with significant military base operations."

Waldie maintained that OMB's proposal was understandable, and even perhaps inevitable, in view of the previous background of OMB director head Roy Ash who was the former Chief Executive for Litton Industries, a major corporate contractor of services to the military, and among those corporations most likely to receive any new contracts to provide the base operational support services.

Waldie noted that documents in his possession declared that "the proposal has the approval of the highest levels within the Office of Management and Budget." Waldie charged that OMB's assertion that such contracting out would save money, was "nothing more than a cover-up for the Administration's basic 'big business' bias; because the record is abundantly clear that past conversions have demonstrated time and again that the 'cost-plus' contracts given to private corporations to profice services inevitably cost the taxpayers more money than if career civil servants do the job."

Waldie also noted that the OMB proposal called for all work to be contracted out to only one contractor per base, thereby eliminating any possibility that small, specialized companies could compete for a portion of the work and thereby also ensure that the contracts will go to such corporate giants as ITT, Lockheed, RCA, and Ash's former company, Litton.

"Moreover," Waldie added, "this whole proposal is just another example of the Administration's effort to intrude upon the integrity of the civil service system."

As an example of the widespread ramifications of OMB's proposal, Waldie cited the proposal sent to the Air Froce which called for a phasing out of 89,000 civilian jobs beginning in fiscal year 1975 that would begin on seven bases and eventually affect 70 Air Force bases throughout the nation.

ARMY RECRUITER

Hello everybody.

Laboratory tests play an important part in the detection, diagnosis and treatment of serious diseases. Medical Laboratory workers and their assistants are responsible for this work. They perform their tests under the direction of pathologists (physicians who specialize in diagnosing the cause and nature of diseases). Their work involves the use of precision instruments such as microscopes and automatic analyzers to analyze the blood, tissues and fluids in the human body. Physicians then use the results of these test to treat their patients.

Medical laboratory assistants, who generally do not have college training, assist the medical technologist in routine tests and related work that can be learned in a relatively short time. Assistants may concentrate in one of several areas. Laboratory assistants working in bacteriology, seriology, and parasitology prepare and stain slides for study and then record the results. Those in hematology collect and perform blood counts and tests to determine bleeding and coagulation time. In clinical chemistry, assistants help analyze samples of body fluids to diagnose and treat diseases.

The U.S. Department of Labor reports there were over 100,000 medical lab workers employed in the U.S. last year. About 80 percent of them were employed in hospitals. Other places of employment include independent laboratories, physicians' offices, clinics, public health agencies, pharmaceutical firms and research institutions. In addition, about 3,000 persons were employed by the Veteran Administration. Most medical laboratory assistants receive their training on the job. In recent years, an increasing number have turned to hospitals, vocational schools and the military for formal instruction. In the future, experts agree, formal academic training will be a prerequisite.

A good way to get experience in this field is in TODAY'S ARMY. For more information about laboratory worker or any other field you would like to pursue as a future career, please contact us at 431-Webster St., Monterey, or call 372-4742/372-0553.

Test For Correctional Officers Is Saturday

The California State Personnel Board announced recently that tests will be conducted for correctional officers for employment with the Correctional Training Facility, Soleday, Ca. The tests will be administered Saturday, Jan. 12, at 8 a.m., at the Correctional Training Facility, Highway 101 about 20 miles south of Salinas.

The monthly salary for Correctional Officer starts at $834 per month plus State fringe benefits. Correctional Officers are key personnel in the rehabilitation program of the Department of Corrections, institutions, reception centers and forestry camps. A Correctional Officer will supervise inmates and be responsible for their control and discipline. He will counsel and guide the inmates in his group.

To qualify for the exam one must be 21-35 years of age, have a high school diploma or GED and two years of full-time paid working experience. (Military service is considered as qualifying experience.)

The written test is given on a pass-fail basis and covers the ability to follow directions, understanding group and individual behavior, correctional supervision and analytical ability.

The oral interview is weighted 100% and will cover education, experience and personal qualifications.

Inquiries concerning the job or the exam should be directed to any Human Resources Development Office (State Employment Agency).

Energy Crisis Spurs National PTA To Action

Concerned that the public schools may be the "sitting ducks" in the priority struggle for scarce fuels, the National PTA notified its multi-million membership this week of the need to exert every effort to ensure that adequate attention is given to school needs.

"The PTA will, of course, encourage parents, teachers, administrators, and boards of education to cooperate in the need to conserve energy," said Grace Baisinger, coordinator of legislative activity for the PTA. "However, we would hope that we can meet this need without drastically changing the educational program and school calendars."

This action came on the heels of legislative proposals which would give President Richard M. Nixon wide-ranging power to bring about energy conservation by curtailing hours of work, closing schools, reducing highway speed limits, prohibiting outdoor advertising, and imposing rationing on scarce fuels.

The President has signed legislation to broaden the fuel allocation plan to include crude oil, gasoline, and heavy fuel oil. Anticipating the possibility that the schools may suffer in the priority struggle for scarce fuels, the National PTA coordinator expressed the organization's concern to President Nixon, former energy czar John A. Love, Senator Henry M. Jackson, chairman, Senate committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, and Congressman Haley Staggers, chairman of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee.

Mrs. Baisinger pointed out that plans now being considered by some local school districts call for closing schools for a month or two, and eliminating after-school athletics, adult education, and community programs. "We simply cannot let this happen," she said.

Expressing other concerns related to the energy crisis, Mrs. Baisinger said the PTA is apprehensive about the welfare of children of working mothers if schools are closed and children are on "vacation" during the winter.

"It is no longer important that we question the reasons why a woman is working," she said. "What we must ask ourselves is: 'What provisions will be made for these children if schools are closed this winter?'"

The National PTA has also urged its members to become actively involved in the policy-making process for fuel allocation while these crucial early decisions are being made.

Employers Must Provide Workman's Compensation

California employers have been advised to check their workmen's compensation insurance coverage -- it could mean the difference between a happy, prosperous holiday season or a business disaster.

Robert E. Howard, State Labor Commissioner, estimates there may be as many as 5,000 State employers not carrying the required insurance protection for their workers.

"Those who do not protect their workers against the possibility of on-the-job injuries will be subject to strict enforcement action," Howard said.

In the past year, Howard's statewide staff of investigators in the State Division of Labor Law Enforcement, State Department of Industrial Relations, have handled more than 26,000 cases involving employers suspected of being uninsured, in violation of Section 3700, California Labor Code.

Some employers, investigators find, have honest confusions about the required insurance, according to Howard. Typical mixups involve:

* disability insurance - it does not cover work-related injuries to employees;

* language problems - employers cannot read or understand the legal requirements;

* casual or seasonal employees - some who hire these types of workers think the law does not cover them;

* newly licnesed employers - some new in business may not know the insurance requirements.

Whatever the cause for not carrying the required worker protection, Howard warns employers they are open to serious legal action if they do not carry the insurance.

"The best Christmas present a worker might receive from his employer is a safe place to work; however when an injury happens, then there must be help through insurance to pay emergency medical bills," Howard said.

The Labor Comissioner welcomes inquiries about the insurance requirements, addressed to him at the State Division of Labor Law Enforcement headquarters, 455 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, or at any of the Division's statewide offices.

Size Of Government Autos Is Restricted

In order to force the Federal government "to set an example" in conserving energy, Congressman Glenn Anderson (D-Calif.) today successfully pushed through a measure which would require the government to purchase small, "fuel-economy" cars, achieving at least 16 miles per gallon, beginning in July 1974, rather than continue to purchase the "gas-guzzling" cars with poor performance.

Anderson noted that the government buys about 18,000 new cars a year to replace older models, but continues to buy larger cars that do not conserve energy.

Under his proposal, the Federal government would be required to buy at least 12,600 cars which achieve better than 17 miles per gallon during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1974. For the following years, at least 90 percent, or 16,200, of the cars bought by the government would have to achieve at least 20 miles per gallon.

"When every American is being asked to make huge sacrifices to conserve energy, I don't think it's too much to require Federal bureaucrats to ride in a smaller car," Anderson said.

"If performance of the 89,000-car Federal fleet were to gain a 33% increase in gas mileage -- up to 20 miles per gallon -- we would save 12.5 million gallons of oil -- enough to heat every home in America for one day," the former Lieutenant Governor explained.

"Presently the Federal fleet of cars averages about 15 miles per gallon -- from a low of 11 miles per gallon for Justice Department vehicles to a high of 16 miles a gallon for cars used in rural areas," he continued.

The Los Angeles lawmaker also noted that small American-built cars were cheaper to purchase than the large cars.

"We can no longer afford the luxury of shuffing Federal officials around in gas-guzzling cars that waste precious resources. Instead a ride in a Vega, Pinto, or Gremlin would set a good example, save tax dollars, and conserve energy," he concluded.

OUT NATO ALLIES
by Jim McCarley

The sky appeared to be falling last month and the only nation to hold up the roof was the United States. In the wake of the Mid-east war, our NATO allies proved themselves to be fair weather friends indeed. As the U.S. was frantically trying to avert Soviet domination in the Suez Canal area, Europe stood quaking in its boots over a possible oil supply shutoff by the Arabs.

Traditionally, the U.S. and Europe have been partners in the NATO alliance. But this union did a rapid turn about when the Arabs and Israelis chose up sides and the Arabs made it clear that only teammates would get oil.

Under the NATO alliance, U.S. troops, tanks and planes were stationed in Europe, ready to protect friends. This time the friend was Israel, but Europe did not see it that way. When faced with the prospect of a long cold winter, our European allies scattered like dust in a wind storm.

Even scant support by our NATO allies would have been a boon to the U.S. in ending the war. Nearly all of them stood silent and some even joined the other team. England privately agreed with the U.S. position, but was mute. Greece and Turkey, which lie in the direct path to the Mid-east, refused to allow the U.S. to fly over their countries to reach desperate Israel, but buckled under rapidly, when the Soviets pressured them to fly over their land.

Th U.S. Defense Department officials were particularly incensed when West Germany rebuked the U.S. for using American bases there, as a staging point for relief flights to Israel. This was from a country long dependent on our 229,000 troops, of which I was a part of for 11 years, stationed there to guard German boundaries from Communist encroachment. These troops have been both a military and financial advantage for them, and their recent action leaves a questionable motive for our presence.

Most disturbing of all, was that "the Europeans acted as though the NATO alliance didn't exist," according to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. He pointed to the inconsistency of NATO's stated purpose of averting crises and European actions this time around. It seemed that the fear of involvement by our European allies, may be NATO's fatal flaw.

DEVELOPING

At present, 39 nuclear-powered generating plants are in use in the United States, 55 are under construction and 90 others are on order. Nuclear power plants now provide about 1 vercent of the total national demand for energy. By 1980, they will provide about 7 percent.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

I'm a candidate for Mayor of Seaside. If I'm elected these are the things that will be done.

A vote for me will be an approval of the most powerful Mayor this City has ever had. (Somewhere in between Mayor and King) "With this power, together we could perform miracles. I will fulfill my pledge for freedom and justice for everyone in this City."

I believe in a very few months, Seaside could be a city with no crime.

If the people of this City want a prestige Mayor, cast your votes to the winds. This seat I have no desire to fill.

This platform had it's beginning with George Washington. But so many laws have been passed, freedom is deteriorating, if not already dead, beneath many laws that bring nothing but destruction to freedom and it's people.

If the people of this community believe the laws can stop a Mayor from doing these things, then surely freedom is lacking.

Together I will be the people life saver, but this platform will have no holes in it.

Too these things I am committed, because of the many unjust acts, that I see and feel. I have the desire and the hopes of being Seaside's next Mayor.

Mr. Hugh Bagley, Seaside

Editor:

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong Communists killed 50,000 of our American boys. How would you feel if one of these had been your own son? Well, get set for a shocker!

The New York Times on August 5, 1973, disclosed that the U.N., through its children's fund, UNICEF, is about to give millions of dollars worth of aid to North Vietnam and the Viet Cong. There is absolutely no assurance how U.N. or foreign aid funds will be spent when turned over to dictators and Communists. It is reasonable to assume the money will be spent precisely the way they themselves choose.

These vast sums going to North Vietnam and the Viet Cong were raised by UNICEF'S sale of their atheistic Christmas cards, and by American children going from door to door at Halloween. The millions of dollars so collected will now go to the murderers of our 50,000 American boys. Thus, against their expressed wishes, Americans are being compelled and driven to subsidize the Communist regime of North Vietnam.

Sincerely,
C.C. Moseley,
Glendale, Ca.

Remember, YOU are responsible no matter who fills out your Federal tax return!

Pacific Coast Economy In Moderate Gain

The economy of the Pacific Coast tri-state region grew moderately to $182.41 billion in November according to a report issued recently by THE BANK OF CALIFORNIA. The November figure, which was measured at a seasonally adjusted annual rate, represented a year's advance of 11 percent in current dollars and 4.2 percent in price adjusted terms.

This month, Oregon's economy continued what has developed into a long term rising trend. California and Washington seemed to be producing slower growth paces in November, subsequent to a two month period of large steady increases.

The region's manufactures were 12 percent ahead of a year ago at $42.68 billion but recently growth has slowed substantially in California and Washington. California's machinery and fabrication of products industries, which produced significant gains in the earlier part of the year, have eased considerably, and the same is true with Washington's transportation sector.

The construction industry has slowed somewhat in all three states, however, the year's advances have remained high - 20.6 percent in Washington, 16.4 percent in California, and 13.6 percent in Oregon.

Personal income aggregated $144.18 billion and reflected a year's gain of 9.9 percent in Oregon, and 8.1 percent in Washington. Retail sales for the entire region reached $69.24 billion, up 11.3 percent.

The Bank's estimates are preliminary and seasonally adjusted at an annual rate.

CTA Opposes Cuts In Education

California's teachers will vigorously resist any hasty and ill-conceived tampering with schools as a means of solving the energy crisis, Bryan Stevens, president of the 147,000-member California Teachers Association (CTA), declared recently.

Stevens said CTA is advising its 800 local chapters to make sure teacher input is included in discussions of energy crisis problems, and to vigorously resit through the negotiations process any attempts to cut educational programs or pupil transportation.

"We are urging teachers at the local level to take the lead to see that activities less essential than education are curtailed first," Stevens stressed. "School time should not be shortened while race tracks, bars and other nonessential activities run full tilt, for our children have only one lifetime opportunity to be educated. If this time is reduced for any long-range period we will raise a generation of educationally handicapped adults, which will cost us more in the loss of human productivity."

At the state level, Stevens said, CTA is urging President Nixon, Gov. Reagan, congressmen and legislators from both parties to include schools among the agencies receiving highest priority for fuel and energy supplies.

"Schools account for only a fraction of our energy consumption and should not be viewed as the panaceas in hasty and ill-considered judgments because they are more politically vulnerable than other types of public and private agencies," Stevens said.

The CTA president noted that precedent has already been set to include schools among agencies receiving highest priority in energy shortages. It was during World War II, when shortages were worse. Schools maintained their normal programs.

Stevens vowed CTA and its affiliates are preparing to resist such ill-considered schemes as a four-day school week, cuts in normal school bus transportation, school parking lot fees for teachers and pupils, and the like.

"The proposed four-day week would have a negative effect," Stevens said. "More electrical energy would likely be used than saved, especially with increased TV viewing by millions of youngsters. We would also have millions of boys and girls with time heavy on their hands wandering the streets, since in nearly 50 per cent of the families both parents work. This could only lead to increased juvenile delinquency."

Cuts in pupil transportation, he added, would provide the basis for increased school absenteeism; increase the use of personal transportation between home and school, with the potential for greater fuel consumption; would expose a million children a day to less safe methods to get to and from school, and increase hitchhiking among boys and girls -- also very dangerous.

Stevens stressed, however, that teachers are also being urged to assist state and national energy conservation efforts by pointing out to pupils the nature of the crisis and how they and their families can help through personal alertness and sacrifices to conserve energy.

"In addition to having a voice in what happens, we think it is imperative that teachers and their local associations cooperate fully with local, state and national governmental agencies in efforts to conserve fuel and to educate pupils and the public on how they can help," Stevens concluded.

Warns Of Driving With Gas Cans

California drivers trying to beat the gasoline shortage have come up with a deadly new gimmick -- strapping gas cans to the back of their vehicles. CHP officers reported they saw a number of holidays travelers up and down the state with gasoline cans mounted outside the vehicle -- particularly on campers and motorcycles.

"Carrying gasoline cans inside the vehicle or in the trunk is a severe hazard, but placing them on the outside is even more dangerous," Highway Patrol Commissioner Walter Pudinski pointed out.

Pudinski said the Patrol had no reports of fires involving an exterior mounted can -- yet. "But the hazards of carrying gasoline were illustrated once again in a recent single-vehicle crash near Buellton.

"The car rolled over on Route 101 and burst into flames when three gasoline cans ruptured. The driver was ejected, unconscious, near the burning car but was carried to safety by two CHP officers who saw the crash. The two passengers fortunately were not severely injured and got out of the car in a hurry," Pudinski said.

The vehicle was carrying one 5-gallon and two 1-gallon cans and all ruptured in the rollover. "Only circumstance prevented one or more of the occupants from burns and possibly death, as the car was destroyed by the fire," Pudinski said.

Doctors To Post No-Smoking Signs

San Francisco -- "For your health and the health and comfort of others... Thank you for not smoking."

That message is now being posted in thousands of physicians' offices throughout the state, in the form of a sign mailed to the more than 25,000 physicians who are members of the California Medical Association.

CMA's House of Delegates decided that such a sign should be made available for posting in physicians' waiting rooms as one means to discourage smoking in public areas, particularly in health care facilities.

The dual-purpose sign was included in the current issue of CMA's monthly medical journal, says the editor, Dr. Malcolm S. M. Watts of San Francisco, because CMA is "concerned with the non-smoker and his rights as much as with the smoker and his health."

He noted that "There is some evidence now that non-smokers have more bronchitis and more discomfort if they're in the presence of smokers than would otherwise be the case. The evidence that people who are in the presence of smokers get cancer of the lung, for instance, is not yet clear cut by any means. However, people who are in a smoke-filled room do have discomfort. Sometimes their eyes water. They may get some irritation of the respiratory tract. They may just be made to feel sick.

"We believe that time has come to call attention to the fact that non-smokers do have their rights, as well as the smokers, and that each should perhaps be tolerant of the other's problems."

Mini-Bike Races Are Planned

The Seaside Spartans' Mini-Bike Club will hold races on Sunday, January 20 and Sunday February 10 at Spartan Raceway.

Registration for riders will be held from 9:30-11:30 a.m. First race is at 12:30 p.m. Entry fee is 2.50 per rider. Trophies will be awarded to the top finishers in each group. Admission is free to all spectators.

There will be a special Pee-Wee group for all riders 5 years and under.

Refreshments will be available at the track.

For further information call the Seaside Youth Center at 394-8531 ext. 58 or 28.

Grants Are Awarded

Grants totaling more than $1.5 million were awarded by the California Community Foundation to 285 charitable, medical and educational organizations during 1973, reported Sidney F. Brody, chairman of the foundation's advisory committee.

These figures include grants of $590,086 to 62 organizations suggested by numerous living and corporate donors to the foundation.

Security Pacific Bank serves as trustee for the California Community Foundation which was founded in 1915. The foundation has now made grants of more than $18 million to 650 charities since its orgin.

Brody indicated, "The foundation is a publicly supported, perpetual trust and was formed to receive and manage funds for charitable needs in California with the assurance that the donor's intentions will always be carried out."

Many Will Get State Tax Refunds

"Most Californians will get State income tax refunds in 1974, and those who file their tax returns early will get the fastest refund", Houston I. Flournoy, State Controller and Chairman of the Francise Tax Board, said recently.

"Last year", said Flournoy, "we processed more than four million refund warrants for a total of $367 million. The refunds averaged $78 each. We anticipate that this pattern will repeat itself".

Flournoy said that his office is prepared to process the refund warrants within two days after receipt of the refund information from the Franchise Tax Board, which processes the returns.

"Last year', said Flournoy, "most taxpayers who filed their returns early in the year received their refunds within three weeks. Those who waited experienced some delay".

Flournoy also urged taxpayers to make certain that the social security number is correctly stated on the return, and that the name and address are legible.

"The best bet", he said, "is to use the gummed label which is provided on forms mailed out by the department. This will insure prompt processing of your return, and prompt issuance of your refund".

Apprentices New In California

Apprentice firemen are now working in California -- and firefighting is only one of eleven occupations to take on apprentices for the first time during 1973.

According to the State Division of Apprenticeship Standards, the other crafts to become apprenticeable are brewer, cosmetologist, diamond tool maker, pastry cook, and retail hardware clerk. The remaining five are specialties in the electronics field: electronics assembler, technical programmer, semi-conductor technician, systems tester, and research mechanic.

These new programs are in addition to the 424 crafts and skills approved for appenticeship training under the Division of Apprenticeship Standards, State Department of Industrial Relations.

The first three apprentice firemen in the state are working for the Big Bear Lake Fire Prevention District in San Bernardino.

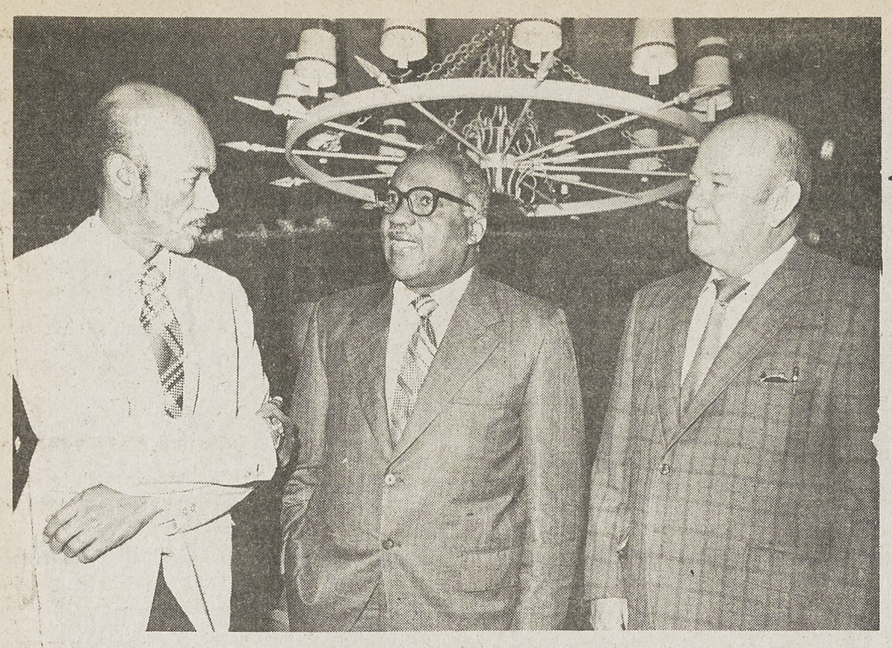

Earthquake Research Grant Announced

"The residents of the 12th District are often the victims of earth tremors, so I am happy to announce that an earthquake research grant of $940,000 has been awarded the University of California at Berkeley by the National Science Foundation. The University will study the energy absorption characteristics of structural systems subjected to earthquake excitation," said Congressman Burt L. Talcott in Washington, D.C., recently.

The program includes testing of structural components such as reinforced concrete beams and beam-columns, and reinforced concrete frames. Concurrent research will be directed towards developing procedures with which engineers can predict the inelastic response of real structures under strong earthquakes, the amount of damage likely to be inflicted, and the possibility of complete collapse, with sufficient accuracy and economy for practical purposes.

Congressman Talcott serves on the Appropriations Committee which funds the National Science Foundation and has supported earthquake research.

MPC Offering Spring Off-Campus Courses

With the demand for classroom space at an all-time high at Monterey Peninsula College, it is more and more necessary to hold classes in off-campus locations.

For the spring semester, which starts Feb. 4, MPC has scheduled courses at a hospital, fire department, elementary school, a church, a saddle club and other meeting halls. Registration for these classes which are offered in the evening or on weekends is now in progress. Application forms and a schedule of courses is available from MPC.

The deadline for mail registration is Jan. 18, 1974.

Dr. Keith Merrill, dean of community education, maintains that "off-campus classes are not a liability." Off-campus classes are a positive approach to making the college more accessible to the residents of the community.

People who may not be able to get to the main campus can still enroll in classes which are held at various community locations. Off-campus classes to be offered this spring include the following:

* Administration of Justice 651. Law Enforcement on the Monterey Peninsula is a course designed to acquaint the average citizen with the police in this community and is held at the Monterey Fire Department on Tuesday nights.

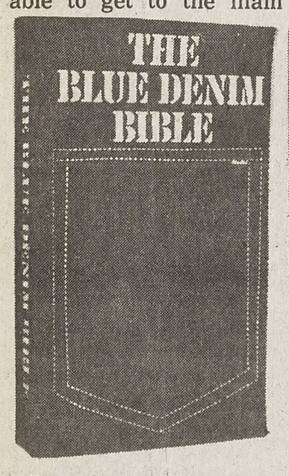

* Administration of Justice 655. Emergency Medical Procedures which is held at Community Hospital on Monday and Tuesday nights, is a basic training course covering all techniques of emergency medical care considered with the responsibilities of the emergency medical technicians as well as all operational aspects of the job which they will be expected to perform.

* Biology 295L. Horse Management is a course for horse owners or prospective owners. Emphasis will be on how to buy a horse, what to look for, how to keep a horse (pasture vs. stable) feeding and grooming, when to call a vet, types of horse tack, how to condition a horse, fundamentals of training, uses of a horse and other topics. The class will be held at the Carmel Valley Trail and Saddle Club on Monday niths.

* English 106. Creative Writing in poetry will be taught at the Grange Hall in Big Sur on Monday evenings.

* English 106. Creative writing in fiction will be taught at the Pacific Grove Community Center on Wednesday nights.

* Ethnic Studies 195. Psychological Effect on Minority Families will be held at the Covell Elementary School, 1491 Contra Costa, Seaside, on Wednesday nights and is a psychological analysis of minority families in America.

The new Bibles that don't look much like Bibles: They're made of denim, feature photos . . . and appeal to youth.

You Can't Always Tell A Bible By It's Cover

By Clarence E. Duncan

People used to buy the Bible in record numbers just because they thought every home ought to have one. Today the best seller is still the Bible, but it's because more people than ever are reading and studying it—especially the young.

A lot of things have been done to improve circulation, from cloaking the Good Book in blue denim to selling it in a variety of flavors—strawberry, licorice, vanilla, etc.—all aimed at reaching the contemporary youth. But the biggest boost has been the by-product of making the Bible easier to understand and to read. In the long run this has attracted by far the largest number of young readers.

Of course, that's what William Tyndale had in mind when he brought out the first printed English New Testament—to make it available to the folks who weren't able to read it. So it's really no coincidence that the fastest selling Bible on the market today—"The Living Bible"—is published by a company called Tyndale House, which recently ran its 12-millionth copy off the press.

Thus, while the Thomas Nelson Co. has as its slogan "Nelson Bibles are bound to be better," and finds blue denim its hottest cover, Tyndale House has its "Living Bible" listed in Publishers Weekly magazine as the best selling non-fiction book of 1972.

Young people continue to have a lot to do with the rise in Bible sales—up 20 per cent across the board this year. They're starting Bible study groups in ever-increasing numbers and providing the challenge to their elders to follow their lead.

"The Living Bible" is a paraphrased translation which has changed many of the conventional patterns of Bible distribution and reading. Tyndale House maintains, however, that it has taken its share of the Bible market from the mass of people who yearn to understand what the Book is saying to them.

Tyndale puts out a full paperback Bible called "The Way." Each book of this Bible is introduced with contemporary photographs of young people, coupled with relevant comments. For instance, Ecclesiastes is prefaced by a photograph of a young woman standing by a souped-up Volkswagen.

New Testament versions of "The Living Bible" include one for young people called "Reach Out," and one for blacks, called "Soul Food." Each utilizes the photographs and pertinent copy which makes it a book of practical use.

The next market "The Living Bible" will try for is women. Paul Mouw, advertising manager for Tyndale, pointed out that "women control most of the money and they're interested in passing on the faith to their children"

"The Living Bible" got off to a slow start 11 years ago, with practically everybody predicting it wouldn't sell. Then Billy Graham decided to use it on his television show as a free offer. It's been going great ever since, and is a big item in J.C. Penney stores, Macy's and many other secular outlets.

Clarence E. Duncan is Promotion Director of the Southern Baptist Radio and Television Commission, and is a widely read religion writer.

PG&E's Power Plant Now World's Largest

Pacific Gas and Electric Company's geothermal electric generating capacity has reached 396,000 kilowatts with the completion of Unit 10 at The Geysers Power Plant in Sonoma County, PG&E president John F. Bonner announced recently. The achievement makes The Geyers Power Plant the largest geothermal power facility in the world.

Previously, the largest geothermal development was at steam fields at Larderello, Italy, south of Pisa. Today this complex of plants generates approximately 390,000 kilowatts.

"Geothermal power is an excellent supplementary energy source that might provide as much as 10 percent of Northern and Central California's new energy needs in the foreseeable future," Bonner said. "An orderly development of this resource at The Geysers will proceed as rapidly as steam becomes available and the developing technology allows."

Construction of Units 9 and 10, both rated at 53,000 kilowatts, began in 1971. The units were built at a cost of approximately $13.5 million. Since 1960 PG&E has invested more than $60 million in generating facilities using steam purchased from Magma and Thermal Power Companies and the Union Oil Company of California.

Agreements between PG&E and Magma, Thermal, Union Oil, Signal Oil and Pacific Energy Companies provide for installation of additional generating units as steam deliverability is proved.

Five additional units, including one under construction, are planned for completion by 1977 to bring the total capacity of the plant to 908,000 kilowatts by 1977.

The Geysers is the only commercial geothermal power development in the United States.

Why do Christian concepts endure?

The qualities expressed by Jesus have influenced men through the ages. Though frequently trampled upon, these gentle attributes emerge unharmed.

What is their remarkable strength?

When you're met with another's forgiveness, meekness, and unselfed love, why is it that your own bitterness fades?

There is a book which explores the penetrating effect on men's lives of these simple expressions of good. It speaks of the timeless spiritual laws which underlie these Christian qualities.

The book is Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy.

a BOOK that can CHANGE your whole life

Is GOD real to you? Can you trust HIM? Is HE near to you?

The Bible tells us we can turn to God for help, for health, for protection. Yet some think these Bible promises are empty. They don't have to be. Today there is a book that is helping many people tune in to the truth of God's nearness, His power and fatherliness. That book is

Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures.

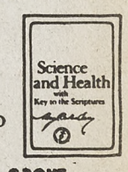

At a low point of poverty, hopeless illness and loneliness, its author, Mary Baker Eddy, saw that God can be trusted and loved. She found that God heals the sick when we love and understand Him. A deep student of the Bible, she discovered a Science based on living the Christianity Jesus taught. She won her freedom from poverty and disease and from her loneliness. Then she wrote down what she learned for the whole world.

By reading and studying this powerful book along with the Bible, men and women throughout the world have found that God can and will help them. These people have solved housing problems, gained opportunities for better education. They've won freedom from poverty, overcome racism. They've discovered what it really means to be the children of God.

You can borrow a copy of Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures from the free lending library at any Christian Science Reading Room, or you can purchase it in paperback.

SPECIAL FREE OFFER

If you'll take this ad to one of these Reading Rooms, you can have your own copy of Science and Health to read for thirty days. If at the end of that time you want to keep it, you just pay the nominal purchase price of $1.95. Or you can return it to the Reading Room with absolutely no obligation.
